WAR NEWS.

THE UNION CASUALTIES.

What the Boer Revolt Cost.

Pretoria, Dec. 25th.—The total casualties of the South African Union forces, in suppressing the Boer insurrection and in operations against the Germans in Damaraland, are officially announced.
In suppressing the Beyers-De Wet revolt the Union troops lost was: Killed, 105; wounded, 227. The retreating Boers, exclusive of prisoners were: Killed, 170; wounded, 300.

The casualties in operations in Damaraland up to date are: Killed, 19; wounded, 22; prisoners, 238.

DUTCH PRESS VIEWS.

An Opinion on the British Army.

Writing on the British army, the Neder-lander says—Like the French, the British have in many respects broken with their military traditions and avoided former mistakes. It had never before happened that immediately upon the breaking out of war a first-rate British army in readiness to leave for the front.

The chief reproach which the Germans bring at the British is that they fight for money. This is quite true; but the professional military in all countries, including in the first place officers and soldiers, are paid as well, and no one would think of reproaching them for it. Why should not a military man live on his pay, as well as a lawyer or a doctor on his fees? In 1870 numbers of German army commanders received large sums from the tributes of war, and Napoleon also used to brilliantly reward his successful Generals.

What makes the Englishman strong on the battlefield, is his national pride. What would Britain say if he came home beaten?
The glory of his ancestors leaves him no peace. He wishes to equal them.

This characteristic, which has been the source of much evil, sometimes has been productive of good as well, and the consequence is that he is an Englishman, and as such has an honour and a reputation to lose, gives the British soldier strength to persevere to the bitter end.

WHO'S WHO IN JAPAN

EDITED AND PUBLISHED BY S. KURIYA.

The last 1913 edition is already issued.
BIOGRAPHIES of over 6,000 people who are well-known in society and of several hundred foreigners associated with Japan appear in the book. Quite new materials and accurate sketches, both being utterly free from prejudices.

Many portraits are inserted. The book contains over 1,400 pages.
The price is yen 8 (12/-) or $3 per copy.
Orders for the book should be accompanied by payment.

Subscribers for the second annual edition of "Who's Who in Japan" will be allowed a reduction of one yen.

The registered postage is 18 cts. to Korea and China 40 cts. and to Europe & America 70 cts. or 35 cents.

It is a Good Advertising Medium.
Many influential papers of the world noticed this work in the highest terms.

For example, The Daily Mail says—Yet another "Who's Who" and this time from Japan! The reader is apt at first to regard it as a curiosity, as a sign that the East has now become Western practically almost to the last detail. But "Who's Who in Japan" is far more than a curiosity; it is a very sound and useful reference book. It is printed in English and contains brief biographies, on the accepted model of prominent men in Japan.
Mr. Kuriya is a skillful editor and has done his work well.

A Natural
RemedyTime was when disease was thought to be due to the direct influence of evil spirits, and exorcism and magic were invoked to cast it out.Science has taught us wisdom. The evil spirits exist still. We call them "Disease Germs," and they also must be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach or intestines, fever with its hallucinations, or biliousness with its aches and pains, is the result.ENO'S FRUIT SALTis the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Its action is quick and thorough. It clears the intestines, rouses the torpid liver to new life, stimulates the mucous membrane to a healthy action, and cleanses and invigorates the whole digestive tract.It may be safely taken at any time by young or old.It is very effective in the early stage of Diarrhea by removing the irritating cause.Be prepared for emergencies by always keeping a bottle in the house.

Household Recruiting.

Earl Kitchener made a statement in the House of Lords yesterday (Jan. 5) regarding the events in the war since he last addressed the House, and the present position of affairs. Some of the principal points mentioned by his lordship were the following:During December the Allied Forces have made progress at various points.The French Army has made noteworthy progress since Rheims and in Southern Alsace.The British line has been entirely maintained.Our forces have been increased by a number of Territorial units and by another division, attached to which is a fine Canadian regiment.German aspirations in Poland have suffered a severe check.The Russians have forced back the Austrian right wing once more to the Carpathian passes.One of the brightest spots has been the extraordinary achievement of the gallant Serbian Army.Russia's victory in the Caucasus should have far-reaching influence upon all the Turkish operations in the Near East.The much-talked-of advance against Egypt has up to the present failed to materialise.In Mesopotamia our Indian Expeditionary Force has consolidated the positions taken at Kurna.While the initial advantages the Germans possessed are diminishing, the Allies are daily increasing those resources of men and material that will enable them to prosecute the war to a triumphant end.As a result of the distribution of recruiting forms to householders, 218,000 names of persons willing to serve in the Army have been registered.Since the war began 29,100 officers have been appointed.

WAR SECRETARY'S SPEECH.

Earl Kitchener said: When I last addressed your lordships, six weeks ago, General Joffre had just sent up strong reinforcements to our fighting line, thus enabling Field-Marshal Sir John French to shorten the line of front he held, and to give some relief to his hard-pressed troops who had been so continuously working in the trenches. The Germans having failed in their attempt to penetrate our line, their staff in the last week of November was busily engaged in transferring from the Western theatre of war several divisions, which were required to meet the critical situation about Lodz in Poland, which I then described to your lordships. This movement of troops from West to East was continued through the first week of December, but the enemy in the Western theatre was left in sufficient strength to hold the elaborate system of parallel lines of entrenchments, and with the support of an effective, though reduced, artillery, to contain the Allied troops.

END AND FLOW.

During the month of December, the Allied Forces have made progress at various points. Very gallant efforts have been made to take the enemy's trenches, and to recapture trenches temporarily lost. The tide of battle has ebbed and flowed with varying success to either side. The French army, in spite of the very unfavourable weather, has made noteworthy progress about Lodz and in Southern Alsace. The operations have for some time, however,resolved themselves into a phase of siege warfare, and every up-to-date invention for throwing bombs and grenades into the trenches has been constantly used. Our troops have been subjected to the hardships inseparable from a winter campaign, but, by a system of reliefs, the severe strain which the men have undergone in the trenches has been minimised. Our soldiers, needless to say, have exhibited a constant cheerfulness and resource which redounds to their credit.

BRITISH LINE MAINTAINED.

Although, as I said, there has been a continuous series of trench operations, the only important engagement between the British Forces and the Germans was on Dec. 20, when the trenches held by the Indian troops were violently attacked at Givenchy. The Indians were, to a certain extent, surprised by the enemy, and some of their trenches were captured, only to be retaken the following day, with considerable loss to the enemy by the First Army Corps, which had been in reserve. The line thus resumed has since been entirely maintained, and the Indian units have enjoyed a period of relief from the trenches.Sir John French's force has been increased by a number of Territorial units and by another division, attached to which is a fine Canadian regiment.

HEAVY GERMAN CASUALTIES.

In the Eastern theatre at the end of November, the German army, reinforced by troops transferred from the Western theatre, were able to extricate themselves, at great cost of life, from the critical situation in which they then were about Lodz. Assuming the offensive on the left bank of the Vistula, they succeeded in advancing by the middle of December to the line of the River Bzura and Rawka, some thirty miles west of Warsaw. Despite repeated severe attacks, our gallant Russian comrades have for more than a fortnight frustrated violent German efforts to advance any nearer to Warsaw. German aspirations in Poland have thus suffered a severe check, and it is evident that the Germans now realise the infinite difficulty of winter operations in Russia, and are specially hampered by their faulty line of communication. Their casualties, moreover, have been very numerous.

60,000 AUSTRIAN PRISONERS.

In East Prussia the situation has undergone but little change since the Russians succeeded at the end of November in driving the German army from its prepared positions within the German frontier. On the right bank of the Vistula, in the Mlava region, the German advance has also been arrested. In the first half of December the invading force was met by bold Russian tactics, which compelled the Germans to retire behind the German frontier, and though Mlava itself is once more temporarily in German hands the right bank of the Vistula may be considered clear of the enemy, whose attempts to cross that river from south to north have been successfully repulsed.In Galicia at the end of November Cracow was being bombarded, and theRussian advanced forces had penetrated nearly to the plains of Hungary. In the middle of December the Austrians, having been reinforced, assumed the offensive, and pushed back the Russians some thirty-five miles. But this success was short-lived. With great gallantry the Russians have gradually forced back the Austrian right wing once more to the Carpathian passes. The Austrian retreat in the latter part of December has been marked by very severe casualties, and, in addition to vast numbers of killed and wounded, 50,000 Austrians are prisoners of war.

SERBIAN VICTORY.

One of the brightest spots in the military operations during December has been the extraordinary achievement of the gallant Serbian army. At the end of November their situation was very critical. The Serbian forces, in their retreat, had been obliged to evacuate a considerable portion of their territory.
Belgrade was occupied on Dec. 1 by the Austrians, who were then making strenuous efforts to turn the left wing of the Serbian army. Suddenly the Serbs assumed the offensive all along the line with startling success, and completely routed the Austrian forces in a way which evoked our highest admiration. Belgrade was recaptured by this gallant army exactly a fortnight after its capture by the Austrians. In these operations the Austrians suffered very heavy losses both in men and material, and the signal defeat of four or five Austrian corps by their valiant opponents cannot fail to have had a demoralising effect both throughout the military forces of the Dual Monarchy and amongst its civilian population.Meanwhile, the Montenegrin army had advanced into Bosnia and captured important positions in the face of considerable Austrian opposition.

RUSSIA'S VICTORY OVER TURKEY.

In the Caucasus at the end of November the Turkish army was being pushed back towards Erzerum, and during the first ten days of December advances were made east to Lake Van.
Turkish reinforcements were landed on the Black Sea coast and operated against Batumi, while the left of the Turkish main army, also reinforced, advanced from about Erzerum in a north-easterly direction, and is now engaged with Russian forces about Ardahan and Sarva-kumish. We received news last night of a Russian victory in the Caucasus, which should have far-reaching influence upon all the Turkish operations which are being conducted under German leadership in the Near East.In Mesopotamia our Indian Expeditionary Force has continued its northern advance from Basra and attacked the enemy at Kurna, on the left bank of the River Tigris, defeating the Turkish troops, inflicting heavy loss, and capturing prisoners and guns. Since then the troops have consolidated their positions taken, and have been warmly welcomed by Arabs of the surrounding districts.

NO ADVANCE ON EGYPT.

The much-talked-of advance of the Turkish forces against Egypt has up to the present failed to materialise. Certain bodies of Turkish troops under German officers have been observed by our aerists to be attempting to penetrate the country east of the Suez Canal, but no large force has yet appeared, and there has been scarcely any contact with our troops guarding the Canal.In East Africa our military forces are co-operating with the Royal Navy in carrying out certain operations against the enemy. An attack on the German within German territory. Topographical difficulties, the want of water, and heavy bush form temporary obstacles to the further advance of the force we are keeping in that field of operations.

CONFIDENCE IN GENERAL BOTHA.

Since I last spoke in this House the situation in South Africa has undergone a most welcome change. The sinister threat of a widespread rebellion, so cunningly planned and fostered by our enemies, has disappeared before the loyal and prompt action of General Botha and his Ministry. General Botha handled the military situation in a masterly manner, which calls for unqualified praise, and in a very short time stamped out the rebellion, if, indeed, it is not an exaggeration to apply such a term to the misquid action of a section of the population. This result gives us great confidence in the future success of any operations the General may undertake.

THE DUMA OPENED WITH ENTHUSIASM.

LONDON, Feb. 9.
A telegram from Petrograd states that the Duma was opened this afternoon with brilliant scenes.
The whole assembly rose and repeatedly cheered for the Tsar and sang the National Anthem.
The President delivered a patriotic speech and all references to the Allies were loudly cheered.
The representatives of the Allies received an ovation.

THE STRUGGLE IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM

LONDON, Feb. 9, 1.05 a.m.
The Paris evening communiqué states:—
The enemy on Saturday night exploded mines at La Boisselle, in front of houses we were occupying. Two and a half companies assaulted our positions, but failed to pass the obstacles caused by the explosion.
One of our companies counter-attacked on Sunday afternoon and chased the enemy from the caves, which we immediately organised defensively.
The Germans left 200 dead on the ground.
We captured on Sunday night, north of Mesnilles-Hurles, a wood where the enemy had been solidly established.
An infantry action at Bagetelle, in Argonne, continued all Sunday night.
The Germans succeeded in progressing, but only held at daybreak a few isolated parts of our advance line, round which the fight continued in the day-time.

MANY MINOR ENGAGEMENTS.

LONDON, Feb. 9, 5.35 p.m.
A Paris communiqué states:—The Germans bombarded Ypres.
Belgian artillery destroyed a farm, from which Germans were firing.
We occupied a mill on the Bethune-La Bassée road, where the enemy had been installed.
Soissons has been bombarded by incendiary projectiles.
The struggle at Bagetelle developed at one of the thickest parts of the forest, and consequently was of a confused character.
The respective fronts, as a whole, have been maintained.
The forces engaged on Sunday did not exceed four battalions on each side and yesterday one.
Elsewhere there are artillery engagements.
A semi-official note adds that between the Oise and the Aisne our artillery shelled a Taube, which landed at the German lines ablaze.

THE FIGHTING ON THE EASTERN FRONT.

RUSSIANS CAPTURE 3,360 PRISONERS AND 11 MITRAILLEUSES.

LONDON, Feb. 9, 1.30 a.m.
A Petrograd communiqué says:—
On the right bank of the Vistula the fighting is becoming more desperate in the region of Serpukh.
On the left bank of the Vistula a cannonade continues, but the enemy is passive.
The great German attempt to break our front Borjomi-Volinsk-Lovka, begun January 31st, was checked on the 6th inst.
We continued to advance in the lower Bzura region and captured on Sunday a strong point Tappin near Kamion, taking 360 prisoners, the remnant of the garrison. A German counter-attack was repulsed.
Our offensive continues in the Carpathians. We carried several strong positions on the front Mesolborcz-Lutovska, capturing during the day 3,360 prisoners and 11 mitralleuses.

THE BRITISH ARMY.

NO CAUSE FOR DISCONTENT OR DISQUIET.

LONDON, Feb. 8
Mr. H. J. Tennant, Under-Secretary for War, in introducing the Army Estimates in the House of Commons, said he was debarrered from dwelling on the size and distribution of our forces, as there was nothing the enemy desired to know more than the size of the army in the future. He emphasised, however, that recruiting was satisfactory. There was no cause for discontent, still less for disquiet; although we wanted more men. This was a life and death struggle. Mr. Tennant mentioned that Lord Kitchener was considering the question of a medal for technical workers in armament firms, etc., who served their country so faithfully and well.
Mr. Tennant added that troops had been brought from India, Australasia, South Africa, and Canada without a single casualty. When the numbers were known it would be thought an extraordinary feat. He paid a tribute to the Admiralty securing the provisioning of the army abroad, also the work of the Army Service Corps.
The British aeroplane design, he mentioned, had proved superior to all others. The engines were French. The French in this matter had given great assistance. Soon the first all-British aeroplane would be used at the front.
The hon. gentlemen warmly complimented the Territorials on their valour and efficiency, and also paid a high compliment to the Army Medical Corps. Entering, he said, was rare, and evidence was accumulating that inoculation ought to be compulsory. (General cheers.)
The speaker made no forecast as to the duration of the war, but he said that not a single member of the House of Commons was despondent. (Cheers.) All were determined that the Allies should dictate the terms of peace. (Cheers.) The nation's efforts were worthy of her past exploits, and the bravery of the Army was worthy to rank with the most glorious records of any army of any time. (Renewed Cheers.)

CANADA'S LOYALTY TO THE MOTHERLAND.

LONDON, Feb. 9.
A message from Ottawa states that in the course of the debate on the Address, and in reply to his speech, the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he could imagine no alteration in the relations of the Dominion to the Motherland which was likely to produce the same patriotism and efficiency as was evinced in the voluntary and spontaneous action of the Dominions all over the world in this war.
The Right Hon. R. L. Borden, the Premier, said that he was much of the same opinion. There had been an addition of 30,000 troops from overseas, including 1,000 from Bermuda, and 10,000 were ready to proceed to the front. 50,000 more had enlisted and would go when they were needed. Canada's further activity, he said, was only limited by its requirements.

SANITARY BOARD AFFAIRS.

THE PLAGUE PROBLEM.

Expert Opinion of the Clayton Apparatus.

The effectiveness of the Clayton apparatus for plague epidemics was discussed by the Sanitary Board at their usual fortnightly meeting yesterday afternoon. Those present: The President, Mr. G. N. Orme, the Vice-President, Mr. W. W. Chalmers, C.M.G. (Director of Public Works), Mr. H. S. B. Ross, Hon. Mr. E. A. Hewett, C.M.G., Mr. P. W. Goldring, Mr. Chan Kai Ming, Dr. Francis Clark (Medical Officer of Health), and Mr. W. Bowen-Hawkins (Secretary to the Board).
The Government intimated in lengthy correspondence that as at present advised they proposed to act on the advice of Dr. Clark with regard to the effectiveness of the Clayton apparatus in Hongkong.

Dr. Clark attached the following note at the end of the correspondence:—
The only report that seems to apply to conditions similar to those obtaining in Hongkong is that from Colonel W. G. King, the distinguished sanitary expert, and he comes to the conclusion that for houses the Clayton apparatus is not efficient in respect to costs. His experience has all been gained in India, and I am content to follow his advice and rely on our present methods of procedure.

The extracts from the letter of Colonel King were:—

(1)—I have myself employed a very large (Clayton) machine (I think the 11 type for dwellings). All that is necessary is to see that all cracks of windows, etc., are pasted down. Round the dwellings should be placed either wire mesh, with watches and sticks to kill possible escaping rats in the space enclosed; or corrugated iron might be used.
(2)—My honest opinion of the matter is that whilst the arrangements is the best for ships, for dwellings and drains do not burrow the apparatus is not efficient in respect to costs. I have no knowledge of the small hand-driven 30 type recently imported into Ceylon, but from observation of the machine-worked type acting on burrows I would be sceptical in absence of proof.

The correspondence was laid upon the table.

THE FLEETING SCHEME.

The discussion was resumed on the report of the select committee appointed to consider the question of the water carriage system.
Dr. Fitzwilliams intimated:—I cannot agree with No. 1 of the Committee's proposal. With regard to No. 3, I am of opinion that it would not be difficult or even very expensive to abolish all openings of sewers into the Harbour in the Central District by means of a long culvert, with openings opposite Green Island on the one side, and at some point East on the other. The Select Committee have considered the existing arrangements, but I hold that a water carriage system in Hongkong does not exist.

The President, in moving that the Board should adopt the proposals of the Select Committee, said that he was no expert on the subject, like the Hon. Vice-President, and he could only, perhaps, voice the opinion of the lay mind when he said it seemed that the question before them was rather beyond the limits of any immediate decision in favour of a water carriage system such as was contemplated by Dr. Fitzwilliams. He much regretted that he was not present to support his proposal, on which, he knew, Dr. Fitzwilliams felt very strongly. As the matter at present stood, what the Board had to consider was whether the nuisance or discomfort caused by the present system was such as to make it incumbent upon them to plunge into a very large expenditure in order to adopt

GERMANY'S EVOLUTION.

LECTURE BY COMMANDER SUSMANN.

The second of a series of three lectures on "The Evolution of Germany" by Commander Susmann, R.N., was delivered at the R. A. Theatre last evening. The attendance included Major-General Kelly, Commodore Austruphar, R.N., and numerous naval and military officers.
The lecturer opened the lecture at a point where Germany benefited by the French Revolution. At that period, he said, Prussia alone was a real German power, in spite of some admixture of Polish influence on the Eastern frontier. Prussia had, moreover, proved herself a capable champion of German rights. There were no signs of any potentially for such championship in any of the other States. Hanover was neglected by her English Kings, Saxony had exhausted herself in Polish intrigues, and Bavaria, Württemberg, Baden, and Hesse were in a state of dull quiescence. This state was indeed typical of the general political condition of the German people at this time, but glimmerings of discontent had begun to show themselves, ready to burst upon the people at this time, previously, and indeed, in different fashion, but to some extent, still, as mere sheep, obeying the orders of rulers.

The lecturer then dealt with the great influence of Voltaire and Rousseau, the ferment of whom overthrew the fabric of corrupt superstition, and the latter who preached discontent and proclaimed that man had a mind and a personality to be developed. The change from quiescence came with Lessing. Then came down to Richter, appealing for a more general culture and, afterward, the great minds of Kant and Goethe, who were the real creators of modern Germany. Kant pulled down with criticism, but he nevertheless built up and endowed man with an exalted sense of his duty, of his fitness for the task, and the glory of it. Man was no longer to be a mere slave, a sheep to the slaughter, one of a herd—he was to have personality, he was to command the forces of nature to his liking. This commencement of the emancipation of thought of Germany we could trace the embryo of some of those characteristics of the German which we recognised at the present day—the devotion to work and duty, the development of science, the recognition of the potential dignity of mankind, the sense that man's destiny was not a fixed one, but depended on his will, for its development. The faculty of enthusiasm, of schwärmerei, was easily roused, and, once aroused, was not easily suppressed. The German took his philosophy seriously, and in Germany philosophers were lived out to the practical test. In the philosophy of Kant and of Goethe, he understood, there was no rejection of the Deity, no relegation of Him to spheres of eternal calm and unconcern with the affairs of men. On the contrary, God became to the German a very living personal God, and man, so far from being separated from Him, was raised up to Him, was given a full sense of kinship unto God, a sense of being His ally for the realisation of the world-destiny. Thus the German could feel without any sense of hypocrisy, that in fighting for an ideal which he believed to be true, he was fighting God's battle.

This, said the lecturer, was the time of high ideals and high influences had never died away, though the ideals had been widely changed—perverted he would say—by the strong reaction following on a great national disappointment, and by the materialism of a more practical and materialistic creed.
Proceeding from the terrible blow dealt the Germans at Jena and Austerlitz, when Prussia lay prostrate, and was reduced by the Treaty of Tilsit to little more than the Mark of Brandenburg, he traced the period of her Renaissance, when more materialistic ideals were entertained.
"It must seem to us," he said "that the realisation of the value of material force has been carried to far—that the noblest ideal has been lost, and that the practical system of Schopenhauer and Nietzsche has only provided the weapon of that spirit of materialism which is now curbing the world."
The concluding lecture will deal with the German Revolution.

but that would mean a very great expenditure by the Government. The present system was the best suited to the requirements of Hongkong and the need of the population. The Hon. Vice-President did not refer to the possible expense of Dr. Fitzwilliams' proposed scheme. Possibly he would not be prepared to commit himself (but the cost of such scheme would be so abnormally expensive that the Government would absolutely refuse to entertain such a proposal.)

Dr. Clark said the reason why this Committee was appointed was because certain members of the Board were becoming alarmed on account of the applications becoming so numerous, and it was thought time for the Board to consider whether they should in future refuse all applications without exception, or consider each application on its merits. The Committee decided that the Board ought to follow their past custom, deciding each case on its merits, but also agreed to put further restrictions in the way of those applications. One restriction was the laying of an annual fee, and the other, and very important restriction, was that the Board should have the right to withdraw permission if the premises were found in an unsatisfactory condition. He personally was in favour of the report.

The Vice-President moved as an amendment that the clause relating to the annual fee be deleted.
The amendment was put, and lost and the President's resolution was carried by vote.
APPROVED.

Letters to the election of Dr. G. H. Fitzwilliams and Mr. P. W. Goldring as members of the Sanitary Board, and approving of the election of a water closet at the Jockey Club, were read from the Government.

CAPTURING TSINGTAO.

OFFICER'S VIVID STORY.

CARDIFF, Jan. 5.

An officer of the South Wales Borderers (2nd Battalion) who assisted the Japanese in the reduction of Tsingtao, sends a vivid story to his mother of the scenes at and after the fall of the fortress (says the "Daily Telegraph" of January 6th). He writes:—

"I have just come back from a tour of inspection of the battleground again, having taken the men of my platoon to see No. 2 Redoubt and other places of interest to them. During the night of the 14th the Japanese engineers managed to sap right up to the redoubts, and the who entanglements, and then rushed the right and left flank, whilst we held the centre and came through. The Japanese artillery simply poured shell in front, and, as a matter of fact, the advance was so fast at dawn that no doubt heaps of Japanese were killed by their own guns."

"The German guns poured shell, too, but their infantry were so hard chased that the advance went right through, and by eight o'clock the forts a mile in the rear had been mounted and the German flag wiped out. Apparently the Governor's A.D.C., who came out during the advance, about seven o'clock in the morning, along the road with a white flag, was killed by a shell. However, that was bad luck, and could not be helped. I expect some day you will hear a huge story about the German while flag being fired on by the Japanese."

"The scene on the battle-ground immediately afterwards was perfectly amazing. It might have been a picture of a battlefield on the cinematograph. The Japanese lost very heavily, as was only to be expected on a big task with dozens of machine guns, rifles, and shells bursting about. The company in front of No. 2 Redoubt had eighty-seven feet out of 250 men. The total casualties on the last night I should think amounted to 1,500 to 2,000, and the Germans lost about 1,500 during the whole siege. We lost seventy-one out of the battalion, which is not heavy, considering that we have been under continuous shell fire for four weeks. Two officers only were wounded, and those very slightly, with three other officers of the Sikh Regiment."

5,000 GERMAN PRISONERS.

Peter, one of the officers in the little show on Nov. 5, had a wonderful escape. A bullet went through his great coat, tunic, shirt, and vest, and just grazed his back. A few nights before that three officers were talking casually near one of the trenches, when a shell pitched about 3ft. in front of them.

But, as luck would have it, it is did not explode, but simply went thud into the soft ground.

There is no doubt that, on the whole, we have been extraordinarily lucky. Eight thousand German prisoners have been taken, and will be sent over to Japan to-morrow and the next day. I must say they are being treated far too well. They are kept within certain bounds, of course, and disarmed; but they are allowed to roam about, apparently, without any escort. We have shifted into one of their barracks, and I must say we treated them very well. As soon as we got in we had all their kit and personal property, etc., collected and put under a guard, and later they came back and took their kit away. I don't think they would have dreamt of doing that for us had we been in their position. They loathe our presence. However, it doesn't worry us in the least."

BEWARE OF COLDS.

CHILDREN are much more likely to contract the contagious diseases when they have colds. Whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever and consumption are diseases that are often contracted when a child has a cold. That is why all medical authorities say beware of colds. For the quick cure of colds you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all Chemists and Storekeepers.
